Dear Representative Evans:

Quad Cities CommUniversity, Inc. in Rock Island, Illinois, has recently received a significant grant from the Illinois Humanities Council to support the cultural and humanities classes that it presents on four consecutive afternoons during the month of February, 2004. This year CommUniversity will celebrate its 25th Anniversary and plans to continue providing stimulating and entertaining short courses for many years to come. In order to keep our registration fee affordable, we seek help from area foundations and corporations. We especially appreciate the support we have received from the Illinois Humanities Council this year and throughout our history. The dollars we receive from the Council enable us to invite area humanists, artists, and scholars to teach courses that will stimulate lively discussion and learning for as many as 700 people.

Please continue to support the Illinois Humanities council, which receives significant funding each year from the federal and Illinois Legislatures. The funding awarded by the Illinois Humanities Council makes a real difference to small and large organizations throughout the state. If your schedule brings you to Rock Island County in February, we would love you to stop in at St. Ambrose University and attend one of our classes.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Coussens
President, CommUniversity, Inc.
